

TITLE IX: FOUR ESSENTIALS FOR FACULTY

March 8, 2017 :: 1:00 - 2:00 p.m. EST

Ensure that you have up to date Title IX training.

OVERVIEW

Learn the essentials of how Title IX applies to your daily work as a faculty member. This online training has been designed as a practical guide for what you absolutely must know about Title IX. To help you better understand and support compliance efforts on your campus, we will cover:

- Reporting obligations and methods for faculty and department chairs
- Techniques for supporting your students
- How faculty can support greater institutional Title IX compliance efforts
- Legal liability for non-compliance

FOUNDATIONAL TITLE IX RESOURCES INCLUDED WITH REGISTRATION

While the webcast itself will focus solely on the practical ways that Title IX affects faculty members' daily work, it can also be helpful to have a greater understanding of the regulation. As such, we have gathered several readings to serve as a primer about Title IX that you can read at your convenience. These readings include some historical context on Title IX that you can complete outside of the time spent with our instructors.

INSTRUCTOR

Peter G. Land, Partner, Franczek Radelet

Pete represents private and public sector higher education clients in a wide array of litigation and counseling matters, with an emphasis on faculty, student, and employee issues. Pete regularly advocates on behalf of institutions in court and agency proceedings, mediations, and arbitrations, and he counsels on employment and student disputes, policy drafting, and training. He also has extensive experience conducting internal investigations and preparing for government investigations, including issues arising under Title IX and the Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act of 2013.

Scott L. Warner, Partner, Franczek Radelet

Scott focuses his practice on representing both private and public institutions of higher education in a wide range of governance, faculty, student, and general employment matters. He has extensive experience counseling and representing clients in a broad range of compliance and litigation matters.

After starting his legal career as an associate at Sidley Austin LLP, Scott served for four years as assistant and associate general counsel at Northwestern University, where his responsibilities included student affairs, affirmative action, athletics, admissions, regulatory compliance, litigation, and policy development and review. Scott is a member of the National Association of College and University Attorneys (NACUA) and the Association for Student Conduct Administration (formerly known as the Association for Student Judicial Affairs).
