

Academic Impressions is a Denver-based small business working to help higher education institutions tackle key, strategic challenges.

Since 2002, we have served thousands of colleges and universities through online and in-person trainings, publications, research, success coaching, and custom workshops. We leverage our vantage point outside the university setting and our diverse network of thought leaders to anticipate challenges to higher education and plan for actionable, practical solutions. We approach our work with passion and dedication, relying on ongoing research and cutting-edge thinking to ensure a fresh perspective that meets the unique needs of higher education professionals.
